A parade featuring floats, bands and the queen candidates will start at 4 p. m. The queen will be chosen on the basis of poise, beauty and personality by a panel during the course of the parade.

The football game with Pikeville will begin at 8 p. m. The queen is to be crowned at half time.

TRAIN GALLERY--Inside the gallery car of the Guild Train, John Dillehay, director, and Louisville artist Mrs. Lawrence Minish arrange a display, which Letcher County residents will see. (story at right)

Health department plans dental clinics

Dental clinics will be held for school children in Letcher County during the month of October.

Beginning Tuesday, a dental trailer, manned by Dr. John Rice of the State Health Department, will be located in Letcher County to provide service for eligible school children in the sixth grade and below.

The unit will be located for nine days at Letcher School, and for five days at the Kingdom Come Settlement School. Eligible children from other schools in the area will be brought in to the trailer by the school attendance officer.

Miss Nora Davis, dental hygienist from the State Health

Department, will also be in the county during October to assist the local health department and the schools in screening school children for needed dental care.

The mobile unit is being located in the lower end of the county because the area is short of practicing dentists.

Arts train to open

The nation's first art-and-crafts "train" -- the two-car Kentucky Guild Train -- will arrive in Whitesburg next week and be open to the public on Tuesday, Oct. 10 through Thursday, Oct. 19.

Whitesburg is the third stop for the train since its dedication, last month in Hazard. At present the train is showing in Jackson.

The train -- two railroad cars converted to an art and craft gallery and workshop -- is loaded with examples wood and metal work, sculpture, pottery, weaving and painting and the equipment to demonstrate these arts and crafts.

Guild tours will be conducted through the train, and the train's director, John Dillehay, will illustrate, to interested persons, the making of art-and-craft, object with the equipment aboard the train.

GREETING THE GOVERNOR--One of the largest crowds ever seen in Whitesburg (some estimates placed it at 5,000, others at 2,000) assembled Wednesday afternoon for a look at Gov. Bert Combs and members of the 16th Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Governor's Tour. The onlookers, many in mountain costumes, packed the courthouse square and lined the streets all the way around to Kyva Motor Co. The visitors were both surprised and impressed by the scope of their reception. (More pictures on Pages 2 and 3).

WELCOME!—mountain style

When Gov. Bert Combs and the 80 businessmen on the 10th Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Governor's Tour arrived in Whitesburg late Wednesday afternoon, they were greeted by a crowd of Letcher County residents rivaling any ever seen here. Many of the welcomers wore costumes of a bygone era--the women in bonnets, aprons and long skirts, the men in overalls and straw hats. The idea was to give the governor and his party a welcome they would long remember. The group was met by men armed with hog rifles and escorted to a fodder-draped reviewing stand in front of the courthouse. The guests were welcomed by Whitesburg Chamber of Commerce President Cossie Quillen and Mayor Ferdinand Moore. Combs and Smith Broadbent of Cadiz, president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, responded; each said the reception here was the biggest of any on the current tour. Broadbent added it was the biggest of any on any of the governor's tours, which began about 10 years ago.

The Whitesburg High School Band, led by Miss Barbara Bentley, preceded the tour buses along Main Street. Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts and the Fleming-Neon High School Band also paraded, along with several hundred high school students from throughout the county, all costumed and armed with signs pleading for establishment of a junior college at Blackey. Although Blackey was not on the tour route, after the demonstration here one busload, including the governor, went to Hazard by way of Blackey and stopped for a look at the Stuart Robinson campus. Members of the tour and spectators received a special issue of The Mountain Eagle with pictures of the school, pictures of Pine Mountain and some comment concerning Letcher County's attractions and needs. (Eagle photos).

Here's another part of the crowd which gathered on Main Street to hear the governor and others speak and to greet the visitors. Combs made no promises, said he thought Letcher County ought to work for a small lake which would give it a better chance for a future park. He said the junior college issue was for the legislature and a commission now studying the subject to decide.

From mother's and grandmother's and great-grandmother's trunks came bonnets and aprons and shawls and skirts of varying age and description. Mrs. James M. Caudili (left) wore her grandmother's black silk Sunday bonnet. With her are Mrs. Matthew Richardson (center) of Haymond and Mrs. Loren Bentley of Neon.

An unexpected guest was Rep. Carl D. Perkins of Hindman, who stopped to chat with Mrs. William Floyd Mercer of Whitesburg.

Active in getting women to appear in costume were Mrs. Archie Craft (left) and Mrs. Lundy Adams. In somebody's attic Mrs. Craft found a pair of high-top shoes which were identified later as "English walkers." Paul Mark Frazier carried a gun along with the other men.

One group of school children dressed Indian fashion and carried signs reading, "We're counting on you, Governor--Don't give us back to the Indians."

Mayor Ferdinand Moore wore a business suit to Jenkins to greet the tour party but changed to overalls before he rode with the governor down Main Street and made a speech welcoming all to Whitesburg. He and Mrs. Moore posed later in front of the fodder-covered truck which served as a reviewing stand.

County Judge Arthur Dixon wore a coonskin cap and carried an old-fashioned hog rifle as he served as a member of the guard which escorted the governor's car up Main Street. With him is John Blankenbeckler.

Q. How did Covington get its name?

Covington was named for General Leonard Covington, a Revolutionary War officer who served under "Mad Anthony" Wayne. The town was established by an act of the State Legislature in 1815 on 150 acres belonging to Thomas Kennedy.

REUNION--Mrs. Florene Isakson of Long Island, N. Y., was in Neon last week to look up some cousins she knew about but had never seen. Mrs. Isakson was a guest of Ben Robinson and his wife, and during her stay there relatives from Lexington and Wheelwright came over to meet her. Shown eating dinner at the Robinsons' Saturday night are (left photo, left to right) Mrs. Howard Ferguson, Wheelwright; Mrs. Tottie Centers, Neon; Mr. Ferguson; Debbie Ferguson, Wheelwright; (right photo, left to right, seated) Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ferguson, Wheelwright, Debbie's parents, and their other daughter, Kathy; (standing) Mr. Robinson, Mrs. Isakson and Mrs. Robinson. The Fergusons are brothers; their father and Mrs. Isakson's father were brothers, and Mr. Robinson's mother was a sister in the same family. All are grandchildren of Dr. Stephen M. Ferguson of Harold, Floyd County. The Robinsons have lived at Neon for 33 years. (Eagle photos).

TESTS SHOW DRY CLEANING BEST FOR WINTER COTTONS

LEXINGTON, KY. -- Dark cottons, sometimes called "winter cottons" are now featured in stores for the cool season and for year-round wear. These deep-colored fabrics often are in designs or weaves that look like fabrics normally used for winter garments. Usually, they are treated or finished for crease resistance, crispness or "body," the term used by textile experts.

If you own some dark cottons or if you plan to buy some soon, you may be interested in results of laundry and dry cleaning tests of these fabrics. These tests were made at the New York State (Cornell) Experiments Station, Ithaca, N. Y.

To test the defects of home laundry and commercial dry cleaning, eight "winter cottons" fabrics were bought in a large city in New York. The fabrics varied in color, texture, weight and thread count, ranging from a fairly smooth, striped tweed to a rather rough red-brown check and a grey tweed with black flecks on the surface. Each was given 20 launderings or dry cleanings. Enough yardage was bought so each could be tested by hand laundering, machine laundering and dry cleaning.

Dry cleaning proved best in preventing shrinkage and stretching - that is, in holding the original shape if the fabric - and also in keeping color, strength, and crease resistance.

In comparing the results of laundering by hand and by machine, the New York report says hand washing showed less shrinkage, fading and less of body than machine washing. However, crease resistance tended to be lost at about the same rate by both methods of laundering.

The report notes that new resin improvements in finishing processes and changes in the fibers themselves are being made constantly. These tests may be an aid in the direction of needed improvements.

It takes 1000 tons of coal to build just 1 mile of concrete highway!

That totals approximately 700,000 tons of coal if Kentucky uses concrete to complete its Interstate Highways. Kentucky needs new coal markets, new highways. Concrete brings the two together. The result? Better business. Better highways.

Today's new-type concrete is smooth and solid all the way . . . is laid flat to stay flat. It actually has a life expectancy of 50 years and longer, with upkeep expense 75% less than for asphalt (based on Kentucky records). This is vital because the Federal Government pays 90% of initial construction cost—but not a single cent for maintenance. Add it up. Concrete means greater coal usage, greater driving comfort, and greater maintenance savings.

Mr. Fred Bullard, Executive Secretary of the Kentucky Coal Association, says: "Cement and reinforcing steel are two basic ingredients of the modern concrete highway. With their high consumption of coal during manufacture, we believe that paving Kentucky's Interstate Highways with concrete would be an invaluable aid to the state's coal industry."

Safe, not sorry REGULAR MEDICAL CHECKUPS HELP CATCH DISEASES

During the first three months of this year, 1580 people walked into the Manhattan division of the New York City Department of Health to be screened for diabetes. None of them had any reason to think they had diabetes. They had responded to an intensive "come in and be tested" campaign. The test found 70 people with diabetes, five people with not-quite-right sugar metabolism who might become diabetic in time, 16 borderline cases who should be regularly checked, and 35 with abnormal findings whose illness has not yet been positively diagnosed. Altogether, 126 people had something wrong in just one area of health and didn't know it.

Most people wait until they have some alarming symptom before going to a doctor. It's far smarter to have a check-up while you're still feeling fine. Many illnesses which can be cured or controlled easily in the early stages give no symptom at first. You can have high blood pressure, diabetes, tuberculosis without knowing it. If these hidden illnesses are ignored, they can result in death and disability. If they are found and treated early, they may be no problem at all.

And when there's nothing wrong, it's a wonderful feeling to get the doctor's "Everything's OK!" So be smart and get a complete physical check-up every year.

New Biscayne 4-Door 6-Passenger Station Wagon

This one may have you asking, "How did Chevrolet do it?" There's a new V8 choice ranging all the way from a standard 283-cubic-inch sizzler to two 409-cubic-inch powerhouses.* And there's that '62 Jet-smooth ride with a supple Full Coil spring at each wheel and well over 700 body and chassis sound insulators and cushioners.

There are longer lived mufflers for all engines. A Grand Canyon of a trunk. Magic-Mirror finish. And, well, we could write a book about it all. Matter of fact, your Chevrolet dealer's got it all down on paper. Get a fill-in from him now.

*Optional at extra cost

The Big SWITCH

The past few years have seen a big switch to electricity. At home and on the job, folks are turning over more work to electric service -- finding more tasks that electricity can do better.

In fact, the average home today has 15 to 20 more electrical appliances than it did just a few years ago. And, even though electricity has become so necessary to our daily living, it has not gone up in price.

There's a reason for the big switch to electricity. It's economical and easy to live better . . . electrically.
